Job Instructions

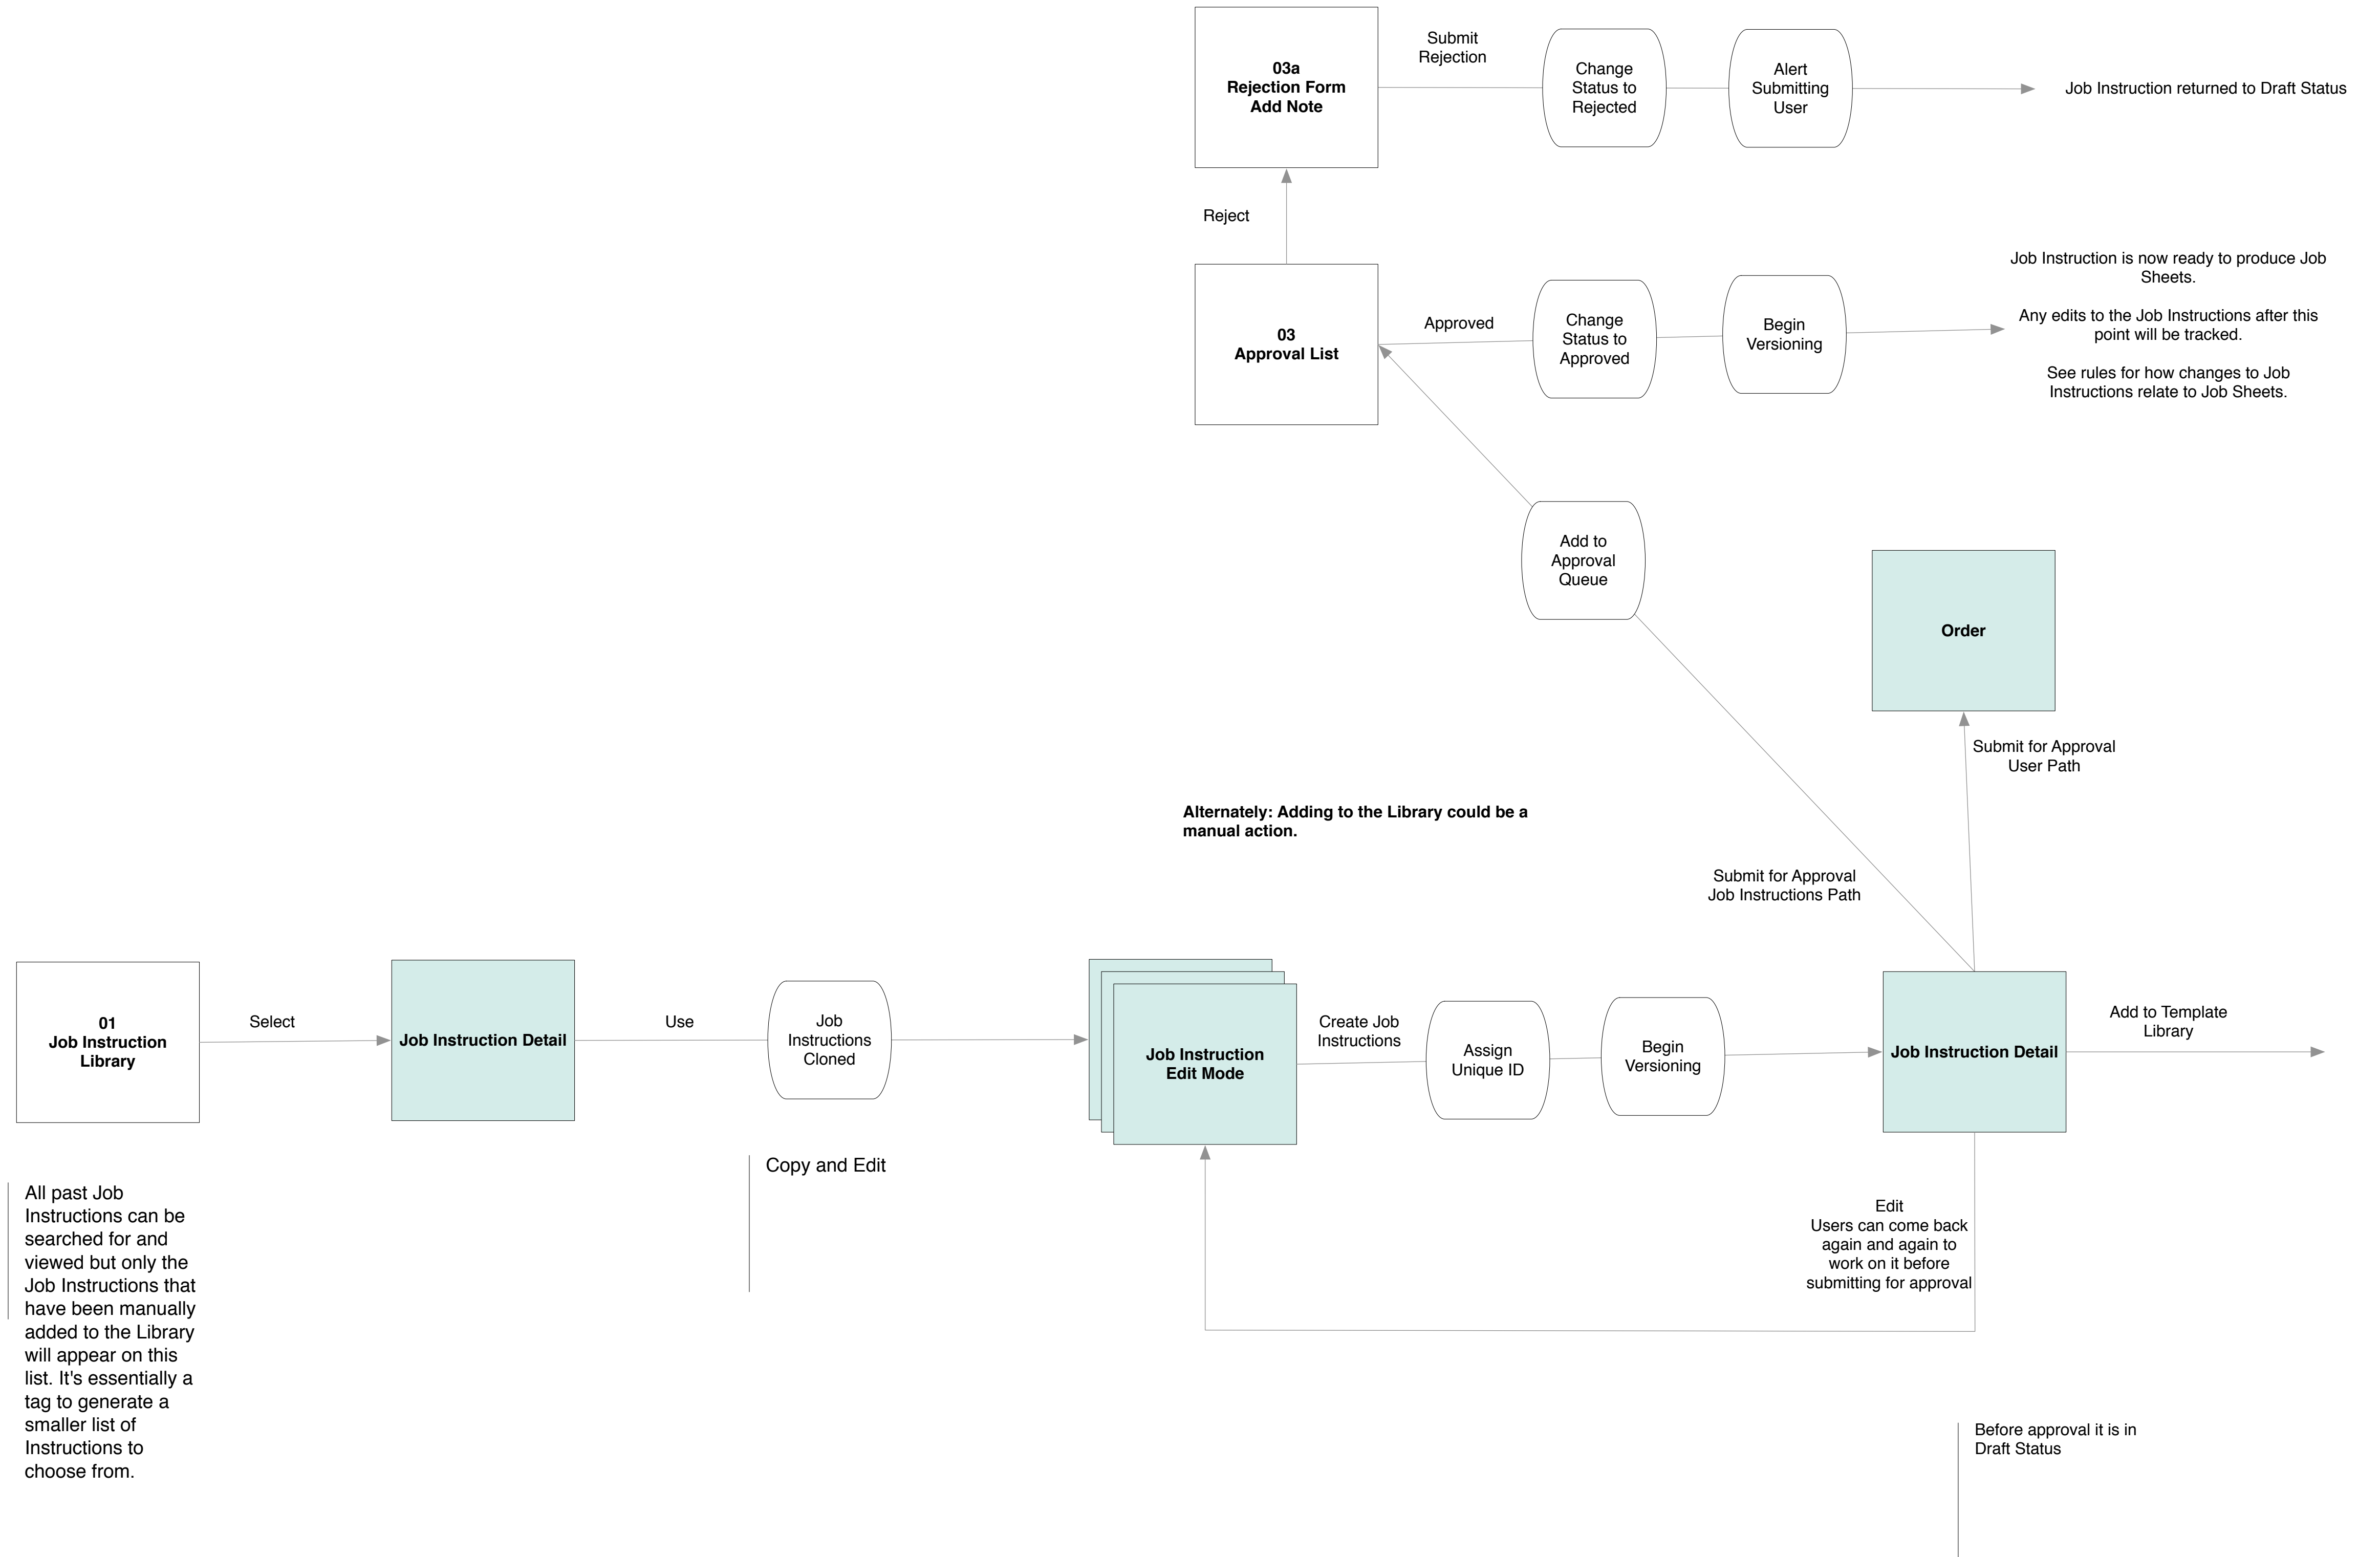

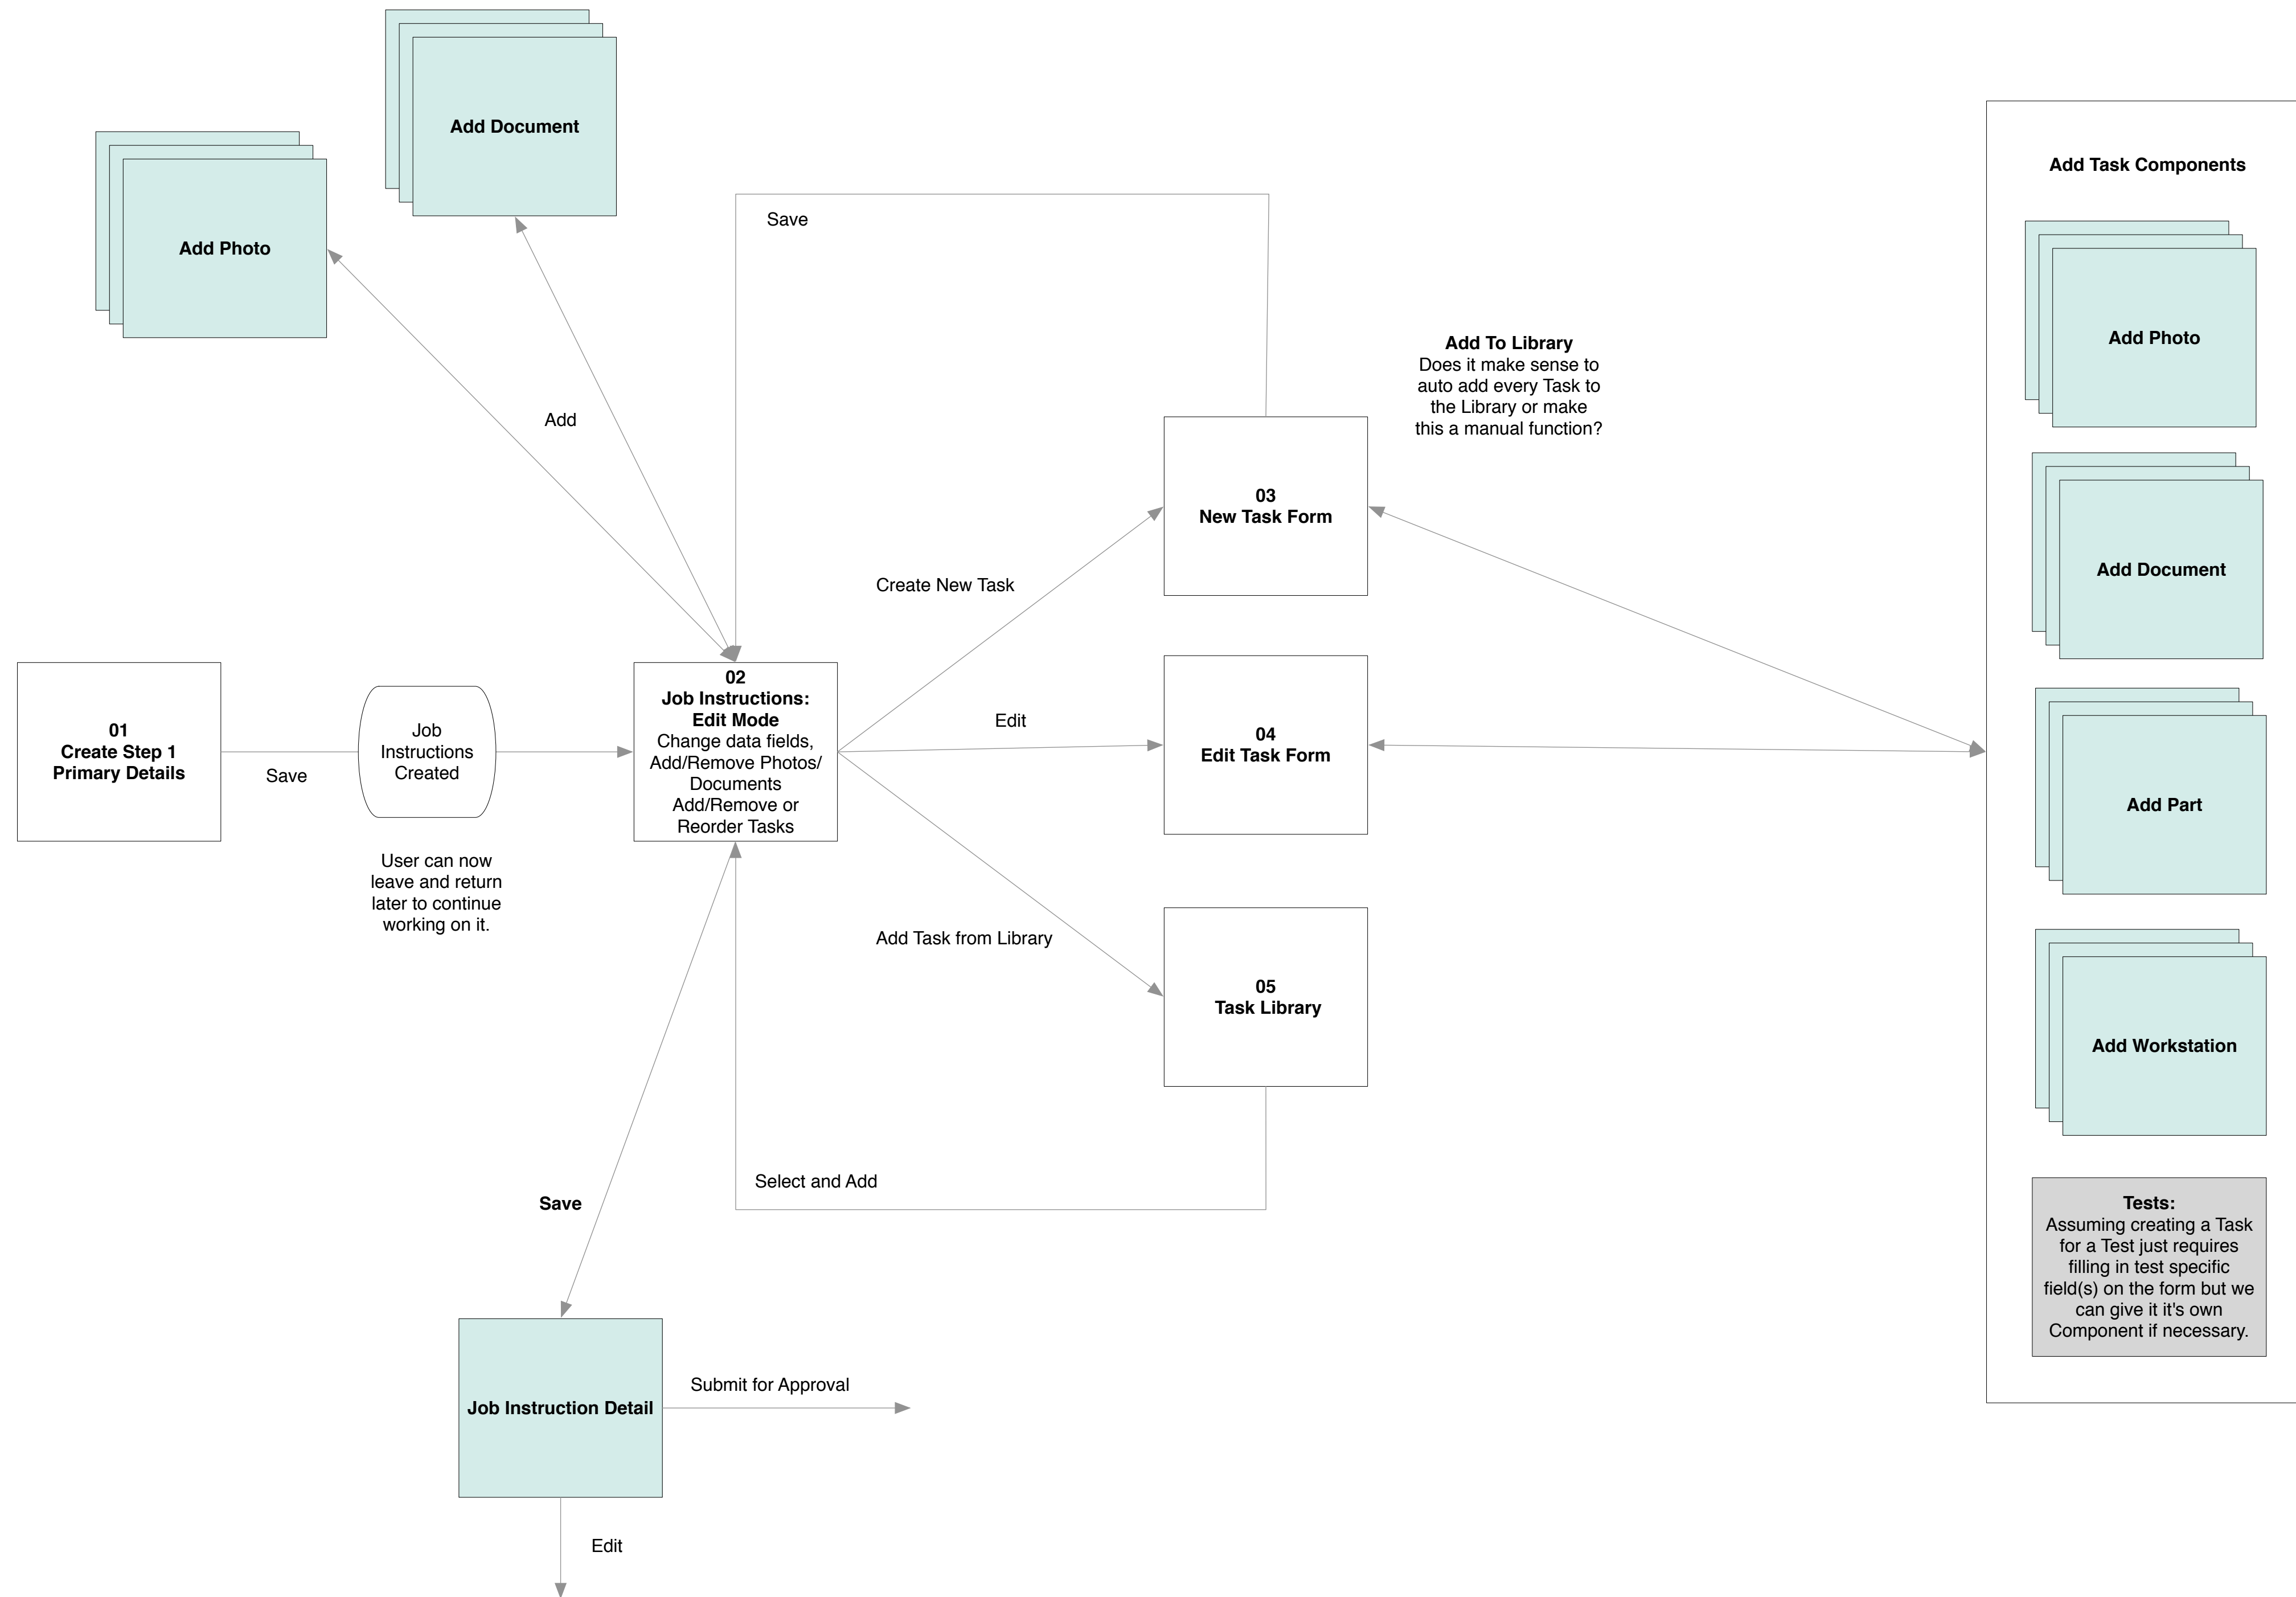

Once Published it can not be deleted

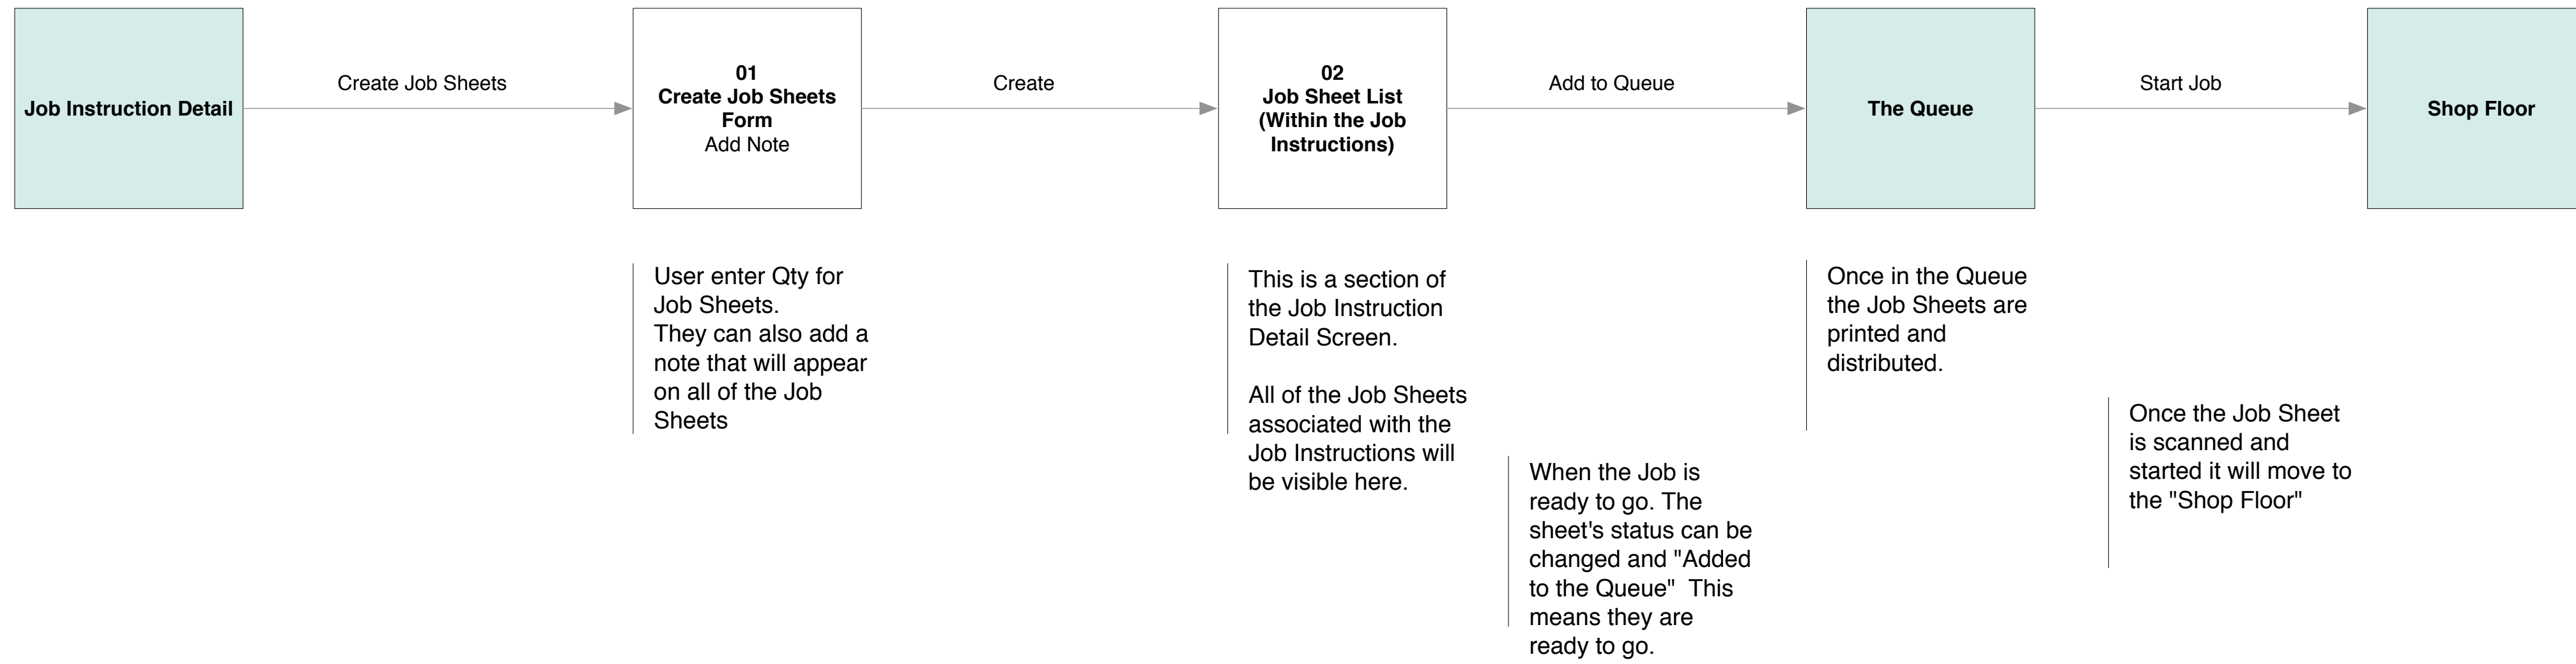

Job Sheets

Note:

Job Sheets can not be edited once they are created. If the Job Instructions change the obsolete Job Sheets should be deleted and new ones created.

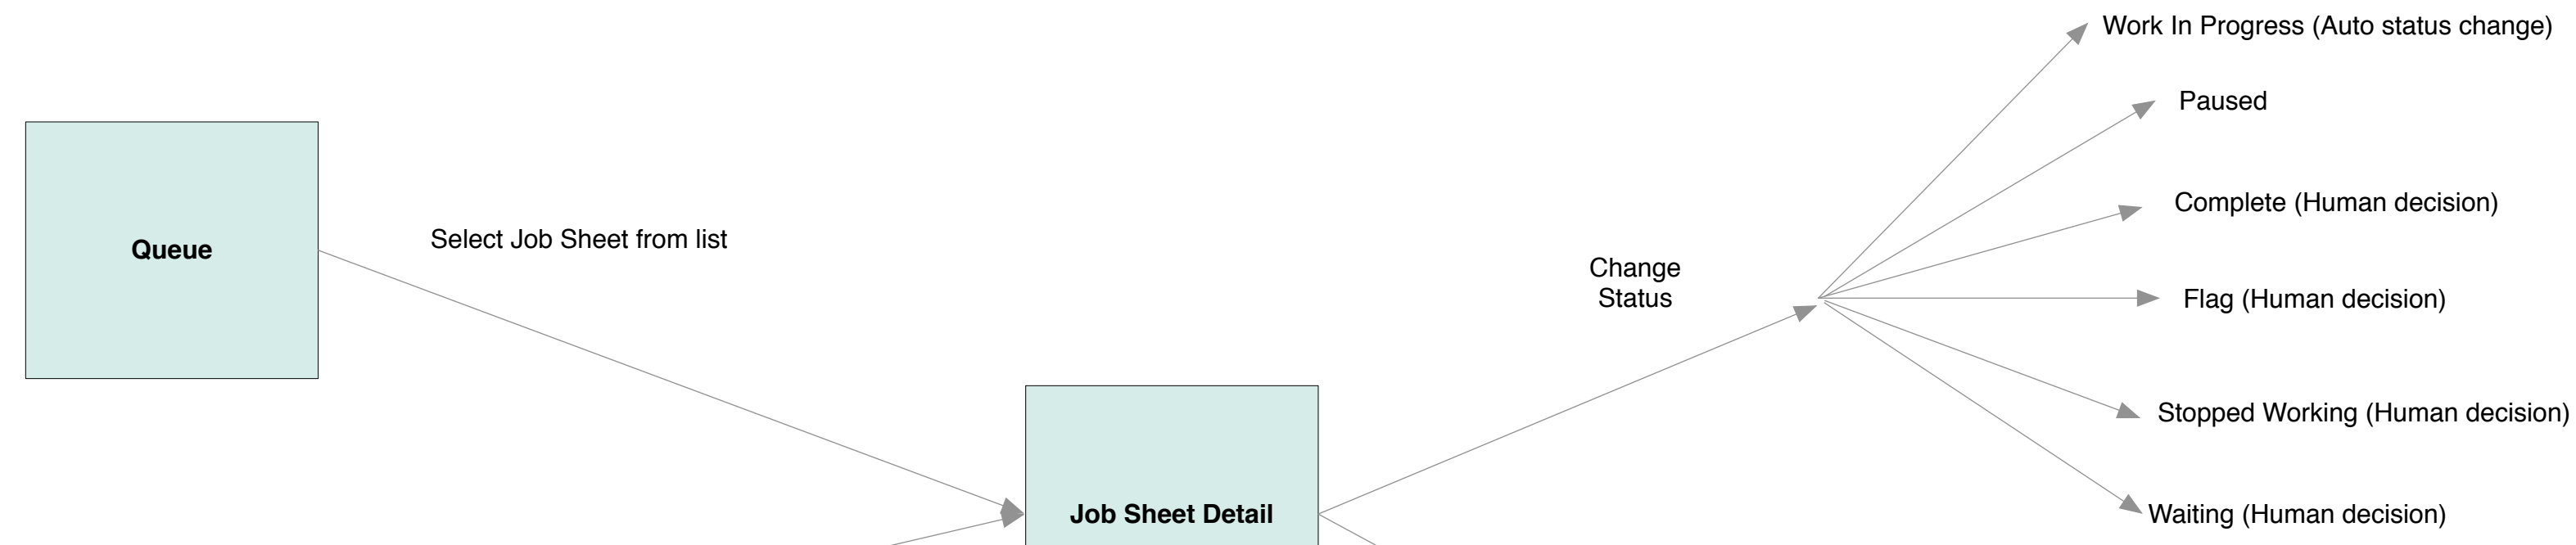

Question:

How do we deal with Job Sheets that have already started?

- Job Sheets will show which version of the Job Instructions were used. We should have a numbering system that is easy to understand.

Example: Job Instructions could have a unique number combined with a letter to indicate the version. 201a, 201b, 201c and so on.

Need to do more work in this area. What type of support for customer numbering can/should we provide?

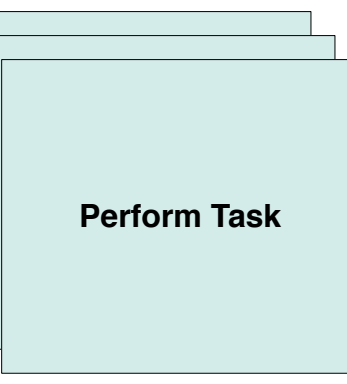

Workflows and status system needs further work. These are early ideas.

The Job Sheet will show progress and identify which Task is to be completed next.

2 Options to Start:

1. Select a Task to begin. Tap Start button.
2. If job has been previously worked on a Resume button will be present that will jump the user right into the Task/Place they left off.

Question:
Do we allow Tasks done and marked as completed out of order?

Status is "In Progress" on the Shop Floor while being worked on.
